Latest Reports From the Scene of the Chilean Earthquake Disaster Say Santiago Is Now a City of Ruins.

TERRIBLE CALAMITY WAS PROPHESIED

Two Days Before the Occurrence of the Calamity By the Naval Observatory Authorities at Valparaiso and Published By the Chilean Press the Day Before.

Santiago De Chile, Aug. 20.—It is now clear that the seriousness of the catastrophe begin to be appreciated. The greater part of the modern houses here are unsafe for habitation and the authorities have organized a special corps to pull down the tottering buildings. In most of the streets it is not safe to walk on the pavement owing to falling debris.

Santiago resembles a camp. The principal avenues are crowded with people sleeping in the open.

The night of August 18 was rendered dreadful by flashing lightning and pouring rain, the electric cables and wires snapped as a result of constant, strong earth shocks which occurred during all the night. This was made more fearful by the pealing of fire bells. Each earth shock was followed by walls and prayer from the people, who were kneeling in the rain and mud. The first great shock lasted four minutes and fifty seconds. Such a long shock had never occurred before in the memory of any inhabitants of Santiago. It caused the bells of the churches to ring, pictures swung out from the walls and there was a great heaving motion of the ground. Experts say the only thing which saved Santiago from complete ruin was that the motion was circular. The principal shock was from Valparaiso to Santiago and Meripella, with its center at Limache. The last two mentioned towns were destroyed as also were Quillota and Llallat.

Earthquake Prophesies.

The statement that the approach of the earthquake was announced by the naval observatory at Valparaiso two days before its occurrence is confirmed. The news was published in the Chilean press on Wednesday, August 15, the day before the earthquake occurred.

Santiago Still Isolated.

Santiago is still practically isolated telegraphically from all other parts of Chile. No really definite news has yet been received here from Valparaiso except the government's official report to the president, outlining the situation and adding that he earnestly requested reinforcements of troops which today were sent to him by forced marches.

The governor informed the president that he had caused the construction of sheds on Brazil avenue in order to shelter the homeless tanneries. He estimated that the quantity of provisions on the way to Valparaiso and the stock on hand there would be sufficient to last a month. The water supply, however, is very short, owing to the destruction of the water works. He calculated that two weeks must elapse before traffic would be restored in some of the streets. The governor says the only illumination of Valparaiso at night is that furnished by the burning buildings. Difficulty is experienced in burying the bodies of the dead owing to the panic prevailing.

Medical Shortage.

The authorities of Valparaiso also have to contend with serious difficulties in caring for the wounded, owing to a shortage of medical supplies. The state of affairs existing at Valparaiso furnishes a serious outlook for Santiago, since many of the homeless people at the former place will undoubtedly make their way here and there is not sufficient accommodation or food in this city for the destitute people of Santiago. The situation is growing hourly more serious.

A Terrible Strain.

President Roosevelt's message of sympathy with the Chilean people was most gratefully received by the government and people and a message of thanks was cabled to President Roosevelt.

Housing the Homeless.

The Chilean ministry of the interior reports that the railroad from Tilito to Batuco is working regularly but that from Tilito to Santiago the line is not working. At Colina, Batuco, Polipico and Tilito the railroad stations, stores and dwellings have all been destroyed. The president of Chile has ordered the immediate construction of provisional buildings of wood and zinc in order to house the homeless. Military engineers are now repairing the railroads and telegraph lines.

The authorities at Valparaiso are organizing distributing centers where food and medicine will be served to the earthquake sufferers. The latter are displaying exemplary courage.

Fifty Convicts Shot.

Large parties of convicts who escaped from the prisons in Chile, have been committing robberies and other crimes at Valparaiso, Casablanca and Vina Del Mar but the majority of them have been captured and summarily dealt with. Upwards of fifty have been publicly shot and this severe action upon the part of the authorities is exercising a warning on those who are at large.

Government to the Rescue.

It is reported that the Chilean government will introduce a bill in congress providing for the issuance of $80,000,000 in paper notes. The project also proposes a new national loan to enable the government to meet all emergencies.

At 2:30 a. m. yesterday, there were two further convulsions at short intervals at Santiago, but they did no damage.

Official and private correspondence arrived here from Valparaiso and other points north and south of that city.

As the correspondent closes this dispatch, a further slight earthquake shock made the building in which he was writing tremble to its foundation.

Death List Increases.

Buenos Ayres, August 21.—3:00 a. m.—The Nacem, today published a special dispatch from La Plata, Bolivia, announcing that 2,000 persons lost their lives as a result of the earthquake shocks and fires at Valparaiso, that 170 deaths from the same causes occurred at Limache, 40 at Quillota, 30 at Combaril, 11 at Potrero, 9 at La Placilla and 6 at La Catedra.

Presbyterians Worried.

New York, Aug. 21.—Two despatches were received at the office of the Presbyterian board of Foreign Missions, from representatives of the board in Chile, one dated Valparaiso, there, but it is impossible to verify his statement.

The majority of the inhabitants of Valparaiso are camped on the hills surrounding that city, in the parks and main thoroughfares or have sought refuge on board the vessels at anchor in the bay.

"Medic" Volunteer.

Marital law continues there. An ambulance train left here today for Valparaiso, with a large supply of medicine and a large number of medical students who have volunteered to assist. The train also took a good supply of provisions. Trains of provisions and medicines have been sent to other towns which have suffered from the earthquake.

Fear Financial Panic.

Preparations have been made to resume trading on the Santiago stock exchange, interrupted since the earthquake, and the principal financial houses are taking steps to guard against a financial panic.

Ten Thousand Killed.

Lima, Peru, Aug. 21.—There was another heavy earthquake shock at Valparaiso last night.

According to the latest reports received here from the scene of the earthquake, the town Quillota, situated about 25 miles from Valparaiso and having a population of some 10,000 souls has been completely destroyed. At Lima this morning there was a slight shock and Ifuacho was shaken by an earthquake yesterday.

Another Quake Sudden.

On Sunday last, August 19th, there was a strong convulsion at Valparaiso which produced a further panic.

A despatch from Santiago today announces that President Riesco is proceeding to Valparaiso, accompanied by the ministers of the interior and of war, to supervise the relief work.

Brotherly Sympathy.

President Roosevelt's message of sympathy with the Chilean people was most gratefully received by the gov-

KERMIT FOLLOWS DAD'S FOOTSTEPS.

Deadwood, S. D., Aug. 21.—Kermit Roosevelt, left South Dakota on a long horse back trip to the ranch on which his father first started his wild west career located near Medora, N. D. Regular cow ponies are being used and a round up outfit provision wagon with camping equipment follows the party.

Capt. Seth Bullock has charge of the outfit which consists of Bullcock's son, young Roosevelt and several others, including Roosevelt's eastern friend, John Heard.

At Medora, Kermit will meet many friends of his father's. The trip will consume a week or ten days and is purely a camping trip, no hunting being indulged in, although some fishing is being done.

THE MANCHURIA STILL AGROUND.

Honolulu, Aug. 20.—9:20 p. m.—All efforts have so far failed to pull off the mail steamer Manchuria, stranded off Rabbit Island, on the north shore of Oahu, and a cable may be sent asking for tugs from San Francisco. There will be a large high tide tomorrow morning at 5 o'clock and another attempt will be made to haul the liner off the reef. It is probable that the steamer Malada may help to get the stranded vessel into deep water but her position is such as to give little hope for success.

The inter-island steamers which acted as tow boats are now arriving here with the Asiatic passengers of the Manchuria aboard. The Manchuria lies unmoved. There is no immediate danger of her breaking up, but it is believed it will be impossible to get her from her present position. It is reported the steamer is leaking and that the pumps are at work.

CENSUS BUREAUMEN

Make Important Discovery While Examining Divorce Records

IN CITY OF NEW YORK

Decrees In Many Instances Were Never Entered Upon Records

New York, Aug. 21.—Discovery was made today by investigators for the United States census bureau, who are looking up divorce statistics in this city, that many of the divorce decisions in the old court of common pleas are inoperative because no decree has been entered upon the records. In hundreds of cases in which the court has ordered that decrees of divorce or separation should issue, the order or judgment has not been submitted to the court by counsel for the successful party. Thus no final order could issue.

It is believed that in many such cases the parties to the divorce have been married again. It was stated today that such marriages are void, and can only be legalized by action of the legislature, and that much confusion and inconvenience to the interested parties is certain to ensue. The court of common pleas is no longer in existence.

ANOTHER SUICIDE FOLLOWS CRASH.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Another suicide has been added, today, to the list caused by the wrecking of the Milwaukee Avenue State Bank. Edward Kollerich, 45 years of age, who two months ago deposited $250 in the institution, hanged himself from a beam of lumber in sight of a number of men in boats on the lake. Several of the men hurried to his assistance, but were unable to reach him in time.

Friends of Kollerich claim that the loss of the money so preyed on him that for several days his mind seemed unbalanced. Receiver Chas. G. Davies has closed the Milwaukee Avenue Cooperative store, one of Paul O. Stensland's enterprises. The store was closed in preparation for a receiver's sale.

YAQUIS ON THE WAR PATH.

Sonora, Mexico, Aug. 21.—News has just reached here that four Mexican miners were ambushed in a canyon on a trail four miles from Los Cabos by a band of 14 Yaquis. One miner was killed. One is missing and supposed to be dead. The other two escaped. A small Mexican armed force pursued the Yaquis, but found them strongly entrenched. The Mexicans made no attack pending the arrival of rurales. Near Montezuma another Mexican miner was killed by Yaquis.

The Probable Result. A democratic authority gives this a forecast of some of the convention work.

Warren, Ind., August 21.—But little work is doing in the Warren field, in Huntington county, Indiana, and no reason can be assigned as the country contains available territory in plenty, that looks as good as anything in sight. Some say that leaseholders are awaiting a better price for the product, but chances are now against any increase owing to the rapidly growing production in the Illinois field and the fields west of the Mississippi.

In Wayne township, Huntington county, Argue, Harris and others have a 30 barrel pump in No. 3 on the E. L. Searies farm, section 13. The Beatty-Nickle Oil company's No. 10 Thos. Pinkerton farm, section 13, pumped 25 barrels, while the Ohio Oil company has a salt water pump in No. 6 A. T. Searies farm, section 24.

In Jefferson township, same county, the Western Oil company's No. 7, E. March farm, section 19, pumped 12 barrels.

In Delaware County.

In Delaware township, Delaware county, the Beatty-Nickle Oil company's No. 2 A. Evans farm, in the southeast quarter of section 23, pumped 75 barrels. Wm. L. David's No. 6 Zehner & Michaels farm, section 10, pumped 50 barrels, and the Kentucky Coal, Oil & Mining company's No. 22, 23, 24, 25, and 26 S. Yannaway farm, section 12, pumped 10, 15, 25, 30 and 75 barrels respectively. The Oak Leaf Oil company's No. 4 on the Long Point church lot, section 24, and right up against the cemetery has been drilled in and shot, and pumped 75 barrels. Coffin & Henlines' No. 11 and 12 M. A. Chryster farm, section 18, pumped about 100 barrels each. This company is cleaning out No. 2 on the Mrs. Kite strip, as it has caved badly from the time it was first drilled in. An attempt will be made to drill it deeper and case off the cave. Harper & Emricks No. 6 on the W. S. Emrick farm, section 12, pumped 75 barrels. Malory Bros. & Stewart's No. 31 on the Haworth Bros. farm, section 11, pumped 30 barrels. The Campbell Oil company's No. 12 C. M. Queen farm, section 13, pumped close to 100 barrels. Burton, Vigor and others have a 60 barrel pump in No. 4 Jasper Lane farm, section 7. Dr. Phelps drilled in a well on the Mac-

In Grant County.

In Center township, Grant county, the Ohio Oil company has struck a small gas well in No. 11 James Hawkins farm, section 2.

In Mill township, same county, Joseph W. Smith has a 40 barrel pump in No. 15 Eli Coggashell farm, section 30, and the Ohio Oil company a small gasser in a test on the Eli Thomas farm, in the southwest quarter of section 25.

In Monroe township, same county,

The Biggs Oil company's No. 18 Alfred Barnes farm, section 4, pumped 12 barrels.

In Washington township, same county, the Biggs Oil company's No. 3 S. & M. E. Beckett farm, section 24, pumped 15 barrels.

Other Indiana Wells.

In Watauga township, Adams county, the Cottewango Oil company has drilled a dry hole in a test on the A. L. French farm, section 5.

In Chester township, Wells county, the Woods & Woods No. 17 S. Irvington section 24, pumped 50 barrels.

In Jackson township, Wells county, the Hazlewood Oil company's No. 4 Jones & Good farm, section 32, pumped only one barrel, and the well has a 25 pound gas pressure.

The Illinois Field.

The test well drilling by the Oakland Oil & Gas company on the John Howe farm, section 35, Crooked Creek township, Cumberland county, and a mile south of Vevay park, is down 350 feet and delayed by a fishing job. The test drilling by Coe and others on the west of the test on the Howe farm, is also delayed by a fishing job at 400 feet. Both these wells are looked upon as important ventures and should they come in producing wells will extend the famous Union township, pool to the south across the dead line. The Howe well has a slight showing of oil, but nothing definitely can be said about it until it is drilled in and given a shot. All eyes are turned in that direction.

In Union township, Cumberland county, the Ohio Oil company's No's 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 22 and 23 Taylor Erick farm, section 7, pumped 100, 100, 75, 75, 50, 50, 15, 75, 75, 75, 25, 25, 50 and 50 barrels respectively. These 14 wells show an initial production of 930 barrels, which is remarkable for shallow sand developments. The same company's No. 6 H. David farm, section 6, pumped 50 barrels; No. 4 F. Lacy farm, section 14, pumped but 5 barrels; No. 4 L. Sanford farm, section 13, pumped 60 barrels; No. 7 L. C. Lacy farm, section 14, pumped 60 barrels, and No. 8 about 30 barrels; No. 5 M. M. Whittaker farm, section 13, pumped 50 barrels; No. 3 S. Pierson farm, same section, 30 barrels; No's 3 and 4 A. E. Owens farm, section 18, 50 and 30 barrels respectively. Same company's No's 8, 9, 10 and 11 M. S. Stultz farm, section 12, pumped about 75 barrels each. Same company has a small gas well in the last well on the S. Rooks farm, section 21. Mallory Bros. & Stewart's No. 16 H. Middleton farm, section 13, pumped 60 barrels. Jennings Bros. No's 22, 23, 24, 25, and 26 S. Yannaway farm, section 12, pumped 10, 15, 25, 30 and 75 barrels respectively. The Oak Leaf Oil company's No. 4 on the Long Point church lot, section 24, and right up against the cemetery has been drilled in and shot, and pumped 75 barrels. Coffin & Henlines' No. 11 and 12 M. MEETING WAS LOVELY.

The Unanimous Vote of Members Being Recorded on Report.

Teachers of Public Schools
Benefit in Salary
Advances.

Everything was as lovely at the board of education meeting last night as a summer's dream in a wooded dell, beside deep flowing waters.

If any strife save that among book agents themselves, has existed during the past several weeks, no sign of conflict ruffled the board's quarters in this, the legal night for the adoption of text books in the public schools.

Board members were a unit, and stood pat on the platform on which they were chosen by a majority of the voters in Lima school district.

The few changes in texts became necessary for the betterment of the course, and these changes were exactly as outlined in last night's Times-Democrat.

When the committee on text books was called, Chairman Banta asked for the superintendent's report. Superintendent Davison read the report, with the changes noted, and by a unanimous vote, it was adopted as read.

These changes are for the substitution of the Model Reader for the Harmonic in the primary music texts.
Physiology is added to the studies in the grammar grades, and an Ancient and Myers history is to be substituted for the one now in use in the High school. The two books to take the place of the one now in use, which is antiquated. These are the sum total of changes made, and the change in music books is made, as outlined yesterday, on an even exchange of the old books for the new.

All members were present last night, with the exception of Mr. Stolzebach, who had, however, attended the "get together" love feast on Belfontaine avenue Saturday evening, and would have been perfectly agreeable had he been there in person instead of spirit.

The board was all business, and Chairman Creps for the teachers' committee, reported a number of advances due in salaries, under the rule of the board for continuous service.
The teachers affected are Miss Blanche Andrews, in the High school, advanced to $85 per month; and Misses Nellie M. Cook and Nellie Richards, also of the High school, who in future will receive $82.50 per month.

In the grammar grades, teachers who have served ten and fifteen years are advanced to $57.50 for the ten-year term and $60 to those who have been engaged the longer period.
The additional $2.50 per month was routed to Misses Lucy Hooper, Ernestine Reilly, Nellie Potter, Jennie Thompson,
Alice Morris, Anna Gagin, Minnie Bloxam, Bessie Morris and Emma Guy.

A telegram from Ed. Hiner notified the board that his coal company had made the lowest bid for the fuel supply, and that if the contract were awarded to the Gas company he would resign it. Despite this, the contract of the Gas company was accepted, and duly signed by clerk and chairman.

Miscellaneous business required but a short time period, and the board adjourned at 9 o'clock.

UNDERTOOK TO KILL TREPOFF.
St. Petersburg, Aug. 21.—The bodies of a fashionably dressed girl and a young man in students clothes have been discovered in the park at Peterhof. From documents found on their persons it appears that they were terrorists, who had undertaken the task of murdering General Treppoff and other officials. How and why the young people were killed is a mystery.

MOTHER'S FRIEND
No woman who uses "Mother's Friend" need fear the suffering and danger incident to birth; for it robs the ordeal of its horror and insures safety to life of mother and child, and leaves her in a condition more favorable to speedy recovery. The child is also healthy, strong and good natured. Our book

VERY NARROW ESCAPE

For Mrs. Z. Baker, a Bullet

Michael Boze Attempted to Wing the Daring
Intruder.

A night patrolman is badly needed in North Lima during these summer nights, for a "Jack the Peeper" of the most daring type has been having tree lance for the past week or ten days in that section, until he met with armed resistance last night.

The homes of Mrs. Dimond and Conductor Fred C. Snyder, on north Main street have been molested, and night before last the peeper began patrolling the yard of Michael Boze, the second hand dealer just north of Pearl street.

It was about 12:30 o'clock last night, when Mr. Boze was awakened by a cry of "murder" from the upstairs window at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Z. Baker, on the adjoining lot.
Grabbing a revolver, he peered out and saw a strange man peering in the Baker home. He let go a shot, and a reply came immediately from the intruder. Then Mrs. Baker gave another yell, and the peeper sent a bullet crashing through the window and not a foot from her head. Boze fired again, and again the peeper returned the fire, while he was making a flight down Main street.

The police were called but gained no clue. Residents of that section of the city have been almost continuously bothered during the past few weeks, and it is said a policeman is such a rare sight that the little boys stand in wonder when one wanders off on request of the good people of the North End, who deserve as much protection as the business men on east Wayne street.

SCAFFOLD FELL

And John R. Bristow Fell to His Death Instantly.

Information has been received by
Mr. and Mrs. John H. Berryman, of Shawnee township, concerning the recent death of their son-in-law, John Bristow, husband of their daughter
Margaret, who lost his life recently in British Columbia, and whose remains were interred a few days ago
at Seaford, Ontario, Canada. Mr.
Bristow had been at work on a scaffold four stories above the earth on the wall of a school house and had warned some of the people who were at work about him that the scaffold was being too heavily loaded with mortar.
Soon after he gave that warning, a foreman on the work dropped onto the scaffold and the addition of his weight caused the iron hooks supporting it to straighten out and the scaffold fell. The foreman,

Mr. Bristow and two other men were on the structure when it fell and Mr.
Bristow and one other man were killed.
The other two were uninjured.

Strike at the Underlying Cause.
To treat Dandruff, and Falling Hair, with Irritants or oils on which a par-water from the ocean to prevent the tide.

You cannot accomplish a satisfactory

You must kill the Dandruff Germ.

Mr. John Pugh, of Wauseon, and the bride Mrs. Adeline A. Babcock, of this

An application was also made today

CELTIC-CUBAN HAS RESIGNED.

Havana, Aug. 21.—Secretary of State and Justice O'Farrell, who was acting as secretary of the interior, has resigned from the cabinet. His action was due to plague, because President Palma criticized him for not being in close touch with the insurrectional movement, and for not strongly grasping the situation. This culminated in the appointment yesterday of General Motvalo, secretary of public works to take direct charge of all the military operations against the insurgents.

SCAFFOLD FELL

And John R. Bristow Fell to His Death Instantly.

Information has been received by
Mr. and Mrs. John H. Berryman, of Shawnee township, concerning the recent death of their son-in-law, John
Bristow, husband of their daughter
Margaret, who lost his life recently
in British Columbia, and whose remains were interred a few days ago
at Seaforth, Ontario, Canada. Mr.
Bristow had been at work on a scat-told four stories above the earth on the wall of a school house and had warned some of the people who were at work about him that the scaffold was being too heavily loaded with mortar. Soon after he gave that warning, a foreman on the work
dropped onto the scaffold and the addition of his weight caused the iron
hooks supporting it to straighten out
and the scaffold fell. The foreman,
Mr. Bristow and two other men were
on the structure when it fell and Mr.
Bristow and one other man were killed.
The other two were uninjured.

of murdering General Treppoff and other officials. How and why the young people were killed is a mystery.

Sullivan Says W. J. Bryan
May Be Endorsed Despite Contest.

Peoria, Ills., Aug. 21.—The democratic state convention met today for the purpose of nominating candidates for state treasurer, state superintendent of public instruction, and for three trustees of the University of Illinois. In reality, however, the convention was more of a fight for the control of the state party machinery between the faction headed by National Committeeman Roger C. Sullivan, of Chicago, and the immediate followers of Wm. J. Bryan. Mr.
Bryan in successive letters from abroad has asked the resignation of Sullivan from the national committee on the ground that the position was improperly obtained two years ago. Sullivan has not only refused to resign, but he and his friends resent what they term the interference of Mr. Bryan in their state politics. Before the convention both sides predicted success. Sullivan claims that he controls 1,500 out of the 1,665 delegates. Bryan followers headed by Judge Thompson, of Jacksonville, and Congressman Wm. T. Rainey gave no figures but asserted that they controlled the situation. They declared that unless the convention followed the wishes of Mr. Bryan and repudiated Sullivan, they would fight to the last against the endorsement of Bryan by the convention. Sullivan declared, on the other hand, that Mr.
Bryan would be endorsed whether he liked it or not.

The indications before the opening of the convention were for a long and hard fight. The first fight was expected over the selection of a chairman. The Sullivan forces brought forward Judge C. C. Boggs, of Fairfield. The Bryanites favored Congressman Rainey. Just before the convention met, however, the Sullivan faction agreed not to oppose the introduction of a resolution into the convention condemning Sullivan and asking for his resignation from the national committee. This was satisfactory to Rainey and Thompson and the chances of a hard fight in this direction were obviated. "We do not propose to make any trouble," said Sullivan. "They can bring in any sort of resolution they want. What will happen to their resolutions is another matter. We have the votes to control the convention and we propose to do it. When it is over there will be no complaint about gag rules and the overthrowing of the 'will of the majority.' Everybody will get all the chance he wants."

Chairman Selected.

The convention was called to order by Chairman Boeschenstein, of the state central committee.

Chairman Boeschenstein announced that the state central committee had selected for chairman of the committee Judge Carroll C. Boggs, of Fairfield, and for secretary, Edward Ga-hill, of Springfield.

Congressman Rainey, who has been affiliated with the anti-Sullivan forces and who was their choice for chairman, announced that while several counts had been instructed for him, he desired

TWO REPORTS Were Received by the City Council,

One Costing Fifty Dollars and the Other a Dollar Seventy-five.

AS TO THE CONDITION

Of the Timberlake Sewer
the Council Is Doubly Informed.

Fifty Dollar Report Was Made In Writing and the Other Orally.

The city council is now very well informed as to the condition of the Timberlake sewer concerning which there has been so much complaint from property owners residing in the vicinity of Wayne, North and High streets and Jameson avenue. The sewer was personally inspected from the creek to Wayne street by Sewer Inspector Schenk, who is a regular employee in the public service department of the city and he, at the request of Dr. Bowser, made an oral report to the council, detailing very explicitly the condition in which he found the sewer at various points. This investigation cost the city the sum of $1.75, a city's employee's wages for one day.

The other report was made in writing and was read to the council by the clerk. This report was prepared by N. F. Stedke, a former city employee who was hired by the finance committee to make an investigation of the condition of the sewer. This report cost the city $50. Mr. Stedke being rated as an expert. His report, which was received and filed, was as follows:

To the City Auditor, F. C. Beam and to the Council Finance and Sewer Committee:

Gentlemen:

Having, by you, been employed to inspect, and go through the Timberlake sewer, I am ready to report the following:

From the creek to Elm street, the bottom of the sewer is very rough and castings of the first two manholes are off. From Elm street to Spring street the sewer is clear but arch is in bad condition. From Spring to Market, in good condition; also from Market street to High except that a six inch gas line crosses the sewer about two feet from the bottom, about twenty feet south of High street manhole. Between High and North streets, the sewer is all right. On North street to Jameson avenue I find about eight inches of dirt and scattering brick in the bottom. Thence to Wayne street six inches of slush in bottom; from Wayne to Charles streets all right; from Uriel to Rice avenues, sewer is all right; from Charles to Collett

WILD OPENING of the New York Stock Market Today.

Amalgamated Copper, Atchison and Pennsylvania Dropped.

L. & N. THREE POINTS.

U. S. Steel Pfd Lost a Point and Then the Market Turned Strong.

Quotations on Live Stock, Grain, Produce and Provisions.

New York, Aug. 21.—The stock market was wildly excited at the opening today. Transactions were more in enormous volume. The tone in the outset was weak, resulting largely from heavy realizing for profits in a number of issues which recently scored extensive gains. Amalgamated copper, Atchison and Pennsylvania fell from one to two points, but corresponding gains were made by Great Northern preferred and Louisville & Nashville. The only wide opening was in U. S. Steel, a block of 15,000 shares coming out at a maximum loss of 3%. U. S. Steel preferred lost a point. The market turned strong before the end of the half hour, when most of the early losses were recovered.

EL & TERREMOTO

By MONORE WILLIS

On this little new El & Terremoto, the second stage being for her brother's health, we rest our eyes, a sign of the struggle did help her thoughts from straying eastward, and crammed with anxiety, each moment that otherwise would have been wretched with homesickness.

But now, with the leisure that came with Jack's returning health, homesickness was beginning its rounds upon her. This made doubly hard to bear the fact that Jack was developing the fractiousness of the convalescent and that an ordinary pacific disposition was becoming so irritable that it taxed even the devotion of this most devoted sister. On this particular afternoon he had expressed an inordinate desire for a certain brand of cigar.

"But, Jack dear," objected Eleanor, "the doctor says that you must not smoke."

"Who says I want to smoke?" growled Jack. "I just want to look at them and sniff of them and feel them. And I want them today."

Eleanor sighed patiently. "It's five miles to town, Jacky. And though it's 4 o'clock, it's frightfully hot. Don't you want to wait until tomorrow?"

"Oh, of course, if you don't want to do the favor for me," replied the invalid, walking feebly across the tent to pick up a fan.

"Why certainly I'm going, Jacky," she cried. "The heat won't last much longer," and she disappeared toward her own tent, leaving her brother looking a bit sheepish.

So now Eleanor was riding slowly along the blistering trail toward the sleepy little adobe village which boasted a single Yankee store at which she thought she could get the cigars. She was a beautiful girl, slender of body and lovely of face, with the redbrown of good health through many generations showing in every hue. Her dark blue eyes, shadowed by the heavy lashes, looked tired, and her figure drooped a little as it in utter weariness.

"It's getting pretty hard," she thought. "It's spring up there, with the snow melting into little rivulets, and the pussy willows out, and the wind flowers coming. Only the thought of Jack's getting well keeps me from going mad."

She started a little as a cheery halloo greeted her, and she saw riding down the trail toward her a broad shouldered, jolly chap in cowboy attire. He wheeled his mustang and rode beside her.

"I was taking a jaunt out to tell you that I have almost finished my work and must fly eastward again."

"Oh, that is too bad," cried Eleanor. "The man's fine brown eyes beamed. "The only known you a week," he answered, "but it's been a mighty pleasant week."

"Jack will miss you," said the girl. "The man eyed her silently. "She's wearing herself out," he thought. "I wish I could take her away from here. Burwell's nearly strong enough to go it alone now. Glad! She's a beauty!"

Eleanor wiped the alkali dust from her face and told him the reason for her trip to town.

"Rather hard on you," commented Hartley.

Eleanor smiled, but said nothing, and they rode for some distance in silence. Hartley's gaze scarcely leaving for an instant the drooping profile beside him.

"I wonder," he thought, "if she realizes that she's never told me a word of herself, who she is—or by the Lord Harry, if she'd have me I'd marry her tomorrow even if they both came from a foundling asylum."

By this time they were riding up the street of the dirty little Mexican village, whose inhabitants were too absorbed in the sight of the Americans to move from beneath the horses' feet until urged to do so by Hartley in a patois that made up in vigor what it lacked in facility.

The Yankee store was the only frame building for miles around. It was owned by an enterprising Vermonter, who was making a small fortune in the lazy little town, where money went faster than it came.

Hartley tied the horses and they entered the store. Just as they stepped within the door it slammed shut violently behind them and the tremor of its impact shook the entire building. The storekeeper, the only other person in the dusky room, looked up in surprise that quickly changed to alarm. The tremor instead of ceasing increased.

"What's the matter?" he cried, running to the front of the store.

"I don't know," replied Hartley. "If I were up north I'd think it was a dynamite blast, but—"

Here the creakery in the window clattered and a roll of turkey red fell to the floor.

"It's an earthquake!" cried the Vermonter. "Come on, get out of here quick!" and he made a dash for the door. But the door was fast and immediately the floor was rocking so violently that the whole room seemed filled with dying articles from the stone shelves. Hartley suddenly pulled Eleanor toward him as of trying to shield her with his body. Then a great rumble, with continuous shocks like explosions, a fearful crash and darkness.

It had all happened in so short a space of time that Eleanor had scarcely realized that she was actually in an earthquake. She had been thrown violently to the ground, as the floor she came and now she fell out in the darkness and unconscious. Hartley's quiet form, almost hysterical with fright, she called to him and clutched his hands feverishly.

She gave the voice of the store keeper.

Hartley was two or three steps behind her. "I'm not called El & Terremoto," he said, "but Mr. H. Hartley seems badly off."

He whole dazed front of the store had been filled the Vermonter but I got out through a hole I can't say what it will help."

"Yes," answered Eleanor, and again she fled to Hartley's hands.

It was a long and arduous task to remove the debris which had injured the presents beneath. The work was doubly long, owing to the fact that what few natives had not fled to the desert were hovering over them ruined adobe with walls of "El terremoto" so that the storekeeper did most of the work himself.

Long before their rescue Hartley had recovered his senses and by combining their two handkerchiefs Eleanor had bound the wound in his head that seemed to be his only injury. It was twilight when they reached the street, a quiet, southern twilight, with just the edge of a great full moon coming up over the edge of the desert.

As soon as it was possible Eleanor with Hartley on guard set out for camp. She was greatly disturbed over her brother, though the natives assured her that the shock was not serious where there were no buildings.

Hartley, looking like a picturesque bandit with his bandaged forehead, was in great spirits despite his aching head. He said little until they were well out on the trail. Then he rode close up to Eleanor's pony.

"Miss Burwell," he said, "an accident like this makes us friends of about ten years' standing, doesn't it?"

"It surely does," cried Eleanor.

"Then," he went on eagerly, "don't you think that two such old friends could safely care for each other and—perhaps marry each other?"

Eleanor did not seem so much astonished as the short acquaintanceship might warrant. But she blushed deeply in the moonlight.

"But you don't know me and I don't know you," she said.

"Well, I'm an architect," he answered, "and I live in Chicago and—"

"Not the John Hartley, architect, that all the world knows!" cried Eleanor.

"I'm afraid so," he replied, a little sheepishly.

Eleanor gasped. "My little name sinks into insignificance," she said.

Hartley looked at her suspiciously.

"You aren't E. Burwell, the illustrator?" he exclaimed.

"I'm afraid so," she mocked.

Hartley stopped the ponies and drew her close in his arms. "Whatever the name," he whispered, "we belong to one another, anyhow."

A Bible Courtship.

A young gentleman at church conceived a most sudden and violent passion for a young lady in the next pew and felt desirous of entering into a courtship on the spot, but, the place not suiting a formal declaration, the exigencies suggested the following plan.

He politely handed his fair neighbor a Bible, open with a pin stuck in the following text, second epistle of John, verse 5: "And now I beseech you, that we had from the beginning, that we love one another." She returned it with the following, second chapter of Ruth, verse 12: "Then she fell on her face and bowed herself to the ground and said unto him, Why have I found grace in thine eyes, that thou shouldest take notice of me, seeing I am a stranger?" He returned the book, pointing to verse 12 of the third epistle of John, "Having many things to write unto you, I would not write with paper and ink, but I trust to come unto you and speak face to face." From the above interview the marriage took place the following week.—Scottish American.

The Face of the Camel.

As a matter of fact, and in spite of its having carried Mohammed in four leaps from Jerusalem to Mecca, seven miles an hour is the camel's limit, nor can it maintain this rate over two hours. Its usual speed is five miles an hour—a slow pace, beyond which it is dangerous to urge it, lest, as Aslatics say, it might break its heart and die literally on the spot. When a camel is pressed beyond this speed and is spent it kneels down, and not all the wolves in Asia will make it budge again. The camel remains where it kneels, and where it kneels it dies. A LOBSTER'S LEGS.

The Two Front Ones Are Different From the Other Eight.

A lobster's legs, all told, are ten in number, but only eight of these are largely used for walking. The front pair or big claws, have been specialized, as in the crab, and most others of the higher crustaceans, into prehensile organs for catching and crushing the prey. Their use is obvious. Lobsters feed largely on mollusks of various kinds and other hard-shelled marine animals. In order to be able to break or crush the shells of these and so to get at the softer flesh within they have acquired such large and very muscular upper or pincers. That is not all, however. Not only have the two front legs been differentiated and specialized from the eight others in this manner, but also, by a rare exception to the symmetry of the body, the right claw has been specialized from the left, each being intended to perform a distinct function. One is a scissor, the other is a cracker.

As a rule, the right claw is the scissor and longer. It has tool-like projections or serrated edges on its upper face, and it is rather adapted for biting and severing than for crushing or grinding. The left claw, on the other hand, is usually thicker, heavier and rounder. Its muscles are more powerful, and in place of sharp teeth it has blunt tubercles, or hammers, of different sizes. It acts, in fact, more like a nutcracker than like teeth or a saw. It is a smashing organ. Nevertheless you will find it interesting to observe, by noting the lobsters served to you at table, that this differentiation has hardly as yet become quite constant, for sometimes it is the right claw that displays the hammer-like nutcracker type and the left that acts as nipper and biter, while sometimes no difference occurs at all, both claws alike being sharp toothed or blunt hammered in the same specimen.

THE PRIBILOF ISLANDS.

Where No White Man May Land Unless He Has a Permit.

Unalaska resembles other northern stations, having warehouses, docks, the inevitable Greek church and a score of wooden cabins. Whalers leave here for the arctic regions.

Dutch Harbor is a station for our revenue fleet. There is much coming and going of ships of all nations. They're quite a formidable fleet, and only two ships out of twelve carry colors of the same country.

Just before entering the harbor one notices a detached rock high against the side of the cliff. It bears a striking resemblance to a Russian priest in full robes. Touched by the sunset light, he seems to stand blessing the harbor.

Sailing north out into Bering sea, one looks back at the desolate, silent, treeless islands, which seem to wall the edge of the world. Hundreds of miles west they run toward Vladivostok.

Two hundred and forty miles north of Unalaska are the Pribilof Islands, not large, but the greatest seal islands in the world. There are many fur seals around the shores of Bering sea and the Aleutian Islands, but the great mass of them are bred on the Pribilof group. No white man is permitted to land on these breeding grounds without a permit signed by the secretary of the treasury of the United States.—Outdoor Life.

The Face of the Camel.

As a matter of fact, and in spite of its having carried Mohammed in four leaps from Jerusalem to Mecca, seven miles an hour is the camel's limit, nor can it maintain this rate over two hours. Its usual speed is five miles an hour—a slow pace, beyond which it is dangerous to urge it, lest, as Aslatics say, it might break its heart and die literally on the spot. When a camel is pressed beyond this speed and is spent it kneels down, and not all the wolves in Asia will make it budge again. The camel remains where it kneels, and where it kneels it dies. He Had His Wish.

Carl Schurz had no consideration for hypocrites or pretenders. Upon the habits of the birds he accordingly chose for the time the evening, just before sunset, and for the place the road outside the city walls and a mile for the distance. The time came and each appeared with his flock of birds and the race began. Long as the end came the sunset and immediately, true to their instincts, as soon as the sun had quite disappeared all the turkeys flew up into the nearest tree to roost, and the geese, which had been slowly toddling on behind, quietly cracked in—the winners.

Moving the Well.

A New England woman once had in her employ a rosy-cheeked Irish maid of all work, whose blunders afforded them amusement to compensate for any trouble she might entail. One day the owner of the place stated in the girl's hearing that he intended to have a wood house built on a piece of ground which at that time inclosed a well.

"Well, aren't you?" said Mr. Schurz.

Minerals in Water.

Lead or zinc ore can be so finely pulverized that a tablespoonful may be mixed in a bucket of clear water without being visible to the naked eye. When thus powdered the particles are so minute that it often takes half an hour for them to settle to the bottom of a vessel full of water. This fact makes it evident that a stream may carry large quantities of mineral rich in metals.

Natally Tarned.

"Now, Pat," said a magistrate to an old offender, "what brought you here again?" "Two policemen, son," was the laconic reply. "Drunk, I suppose," queried the magistrate. "Yes, son," said Pat; "both av them."

The Worst.

WASHINGTON AS A FIREMAN.

He Was Member of the Friendship Fire Company.

George Washington was a member of the Friendship Fire Company, organized in 1774 in his home, Alexandria. At first the company consisted of citizens who, out of "mutual friendship" agreed to carry to every fire "two leather buckets and one great bag of coal" from the coal yard near the firehouse.

"I'll take a sailor along with me the next time I buy a marine painting," said a millionaire. "I bought two marines last month and yesterday my old friend Captain Saltorse had a look at them."

"Saltorse said:

"In this first picture we've got a trading schooner in charge of a tug towing away from a rock bound coast through a fearful jungle of sea. The schooner's mainmast mast is gone, and all sails are lowered except her staysail, which is kept hoisted, though she is towing head on to the gale. Why is hoisted staysail? All hands, I suppose, are drunk."

"In the second picture, continued Captain Saltorse, the principal boat, an eighteen footer, is racing, yet has no flag flying. That's as incorrect as it would be for you to go to a dinner party minus a shirt. The crew of this boat are getting in the spinaker, and if they lower away, both spinaker and boom will be in the water, for they have neglected to let the boom go forward. But I know what the trouble is with them. They, too, are drunk!"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

His Visits to the East.

There is a well known English bishop who writes a very bad hand. This bad hand caused a sad error to happen some years ago. A young clergyman had written to the bishop to inquire about a vacant curacy, and the reply that the young man got informed him that the salary was small and the work difficult. But there was one mitigating circumstance. The incumbent, among his other duties, would visit the east every morning and spend two hours there. The curate would have rejected the post but for the daily visit to the east. That attracted him. There would, no doubt, be told himself, be many fashionable dinners to which he would naturally be invited. He would make many friends among the rich and powerful. These friends would be able to help him in his career. The earl, perhaps, had daughters. One of them—who knows?—stranger things had happened. And so the curate accepted the difficult and poorly paid curacy to discover on his first visit to the town that he had misread the bishop's letter and that his daily two hours' visit was not to the east, but to the jail.

After which he leaped off his horse, and, seizing the brakes, was followed by a crowd that gave the engine such a shaking up as it had not had for many a day.

WOMAN AND THE LAW.

How Conditions Have Changed in the Last Half Century.

Truly the position of women before the law has suffered mighty changes. Fifty or sixty years ago the twain were indeed one, and that one the husband. He could collect all debts, which he would, though he was liable—indeed, he was liable for all she owed. She could not make a will of her real estate, nor of her personal property, without his permission, and he was entitled to the income from his lands. He could lock her up in his house and keep her there. Whether he could inflict chastisement was a moot point, though a judge of the North Carolina supreme court held in 1896 that he possessed this power, provided he used it "with due moderation."

Over the children the husband had absolute control, and could even appoint a guardian by will who could take them away from the mother. They were to be brought up in the father's religion, without any consideration for her feelings. In fact, it was only about 1886 that the supreme court of Indiana in Bremen directed that the son and daughters of the deceased Nawab of Bengal by an English wife be reared as Mohammedans.—Everybody's Magazine.

DEFIANCE MAN

Killed by a High Tension Current

While at Work On a Western Ohio Line East of This City.

FROM PARALLEL WIRE

The Deadly Current Is Said to Have Reached the Unfortunate Man.

Remains Will Be Taken to Defiance Tomorrow For Burial.

The Western Ohio Railway Company is certainly having more than its share of ill luck. Two or three weeks ago one of its most competent men was electrocuted in this city. Last evening at 8 o'clock the wreck of a north bound limited car at Crisleville resulted in the death of three persons and injuries to twenty-five others and at 1:25 o'clock this morning another lineman lost his life, while at work near the crossing of the line with the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton road east of this city, by coming in contact with the deadly current from a high tension wire. The victim was Edward Terry, a lineman who has been employed in this city and vicinity for about two years.

Terry and two other men had been sent out to do some repair work at the point near the D. T. & I. crossing and had telephoned to the power house to have the power turned off of the high tension line before undertaking the work of changing some insulators. As a further precaution, Terry is said to have started to suspend some chains from the wire in order to ground the current on each side of the point where he was to go to work but in placing one of these chains he, in some manner came in contact with the current and was instantly killed. It is claimed that the power had been turned off of the line at St. Marys but that the wire received a heavy current from a parallel wire. Terry's lifeless body hung suspended from a cross arm on a pole until it was rescued by his companions.

The body was brought to this city in Williams and Davis' ambulance and will be taken to Defiance tomorrow for burial, the deceased's father being a resident of that place. Terry was born in Paulding county and had been in this city about two years. He was about twenty years of age and was unmarried. He was a brother of Mrs. Miller, of the Commercial block, wife of Harry Miller, well known employee of the Curtis Transfer line.

Demand For Men.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 21.—So urgent has become the demand for laborers in the northwest that the Northern Pacific railway has decided to make a reduced rate from the east to all points in Oregon and Washington to induce men of the working class to come to the coast. Effective the company will offer a rate of $25 to the two northwestern states from Missouri river points. These rates will be made only in parties of twenty or more where one ticket is used, and will permit those taking advantage of the reduced tariff access to the day coaches only, giving them no accommodations in sleeping cars or diners. The rate applies from Duluth, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Missouri river to north coast points.

GLOBE SIGHTS.

A man doesn't know any more about the lines in the hand than he knows how much hard goes into the crust, but he can get a girl to let him hold her hands any time while he pretends to know all about it.

PRIZED HAIR ROPES.

Those used by the Darling Egg Gatherers of St. Kilda.

An Irish rope not long since offered $150 for a genuine St. Kildian hair rope, such as is used by egg gatherers. On the lonely island of St. Kilda the most appropriate present a young woman can give to her fiance is a rope made of horsehair, or, better still, of human hair. The rock scalers of this island consider themselves rich above mention of their brides are able to make them such gifts. The ropes are of various lengths, a good one being forty or fifty feet long.

According to a woman traveler who has spent much time at St. Kilda, the ordinary rope consists of a stout hempen cord wrapped round and round with sheep's wool, then with horsehair and finally on the outside with human hair.

It is the work of years to manufacture such ropes—and the maiden of St. Kilda begins very early in her childhood to save her hair combings—and also to dry and bleach certain rough grasses that grow on the wind swept island. The fibers make the cable stronger, and the elastic quality of the hair prevents chafing against the rude cliffs during the rock scalers' descent.

A curiosity collector wanted to buy one of these ropes, which are used by the St. Kilda egg gatherers. He offered $100, but the amount was refused scornfully.

THE ESKIMO SMOKER.

He Dearly Loves Tobacco and Not a Bit of It is Wasted.

"No man is fonder of tobacco than an Eskimo," said an arctic traveler. "The Eskimo deports for his tobacco solely on the white man. For a pound of it he would sell his oldest son."

"It is odd to see an Eskimo smoke. He chews his tobacco fine and mixes it with chopped willow twigs so as to make it go further. Then he cleans out with a picker of bone the small stone bowl of his pipe, and then he plucks a lock of hair from his deer skin suit and rams it down in the bottom of the pipe bowl so as to prevent any of the finely chopped tobacco from escaping into the stem."

"Finally he lights the pipe and smokes it in a swift series of long, strong puffs so that there may be no waste. Each puff is inhaled deep down into the lungs and the first puff's smoke is still streaming from the nostrils long after another puff has been started. There must be, you see, no waste. There must be none of that vain combustion of tobacco without benefit to the smoker which goes on continually among us."

"Often the most experienced Eskimo will smoke so hard and fast that tears will stream from his eyes, he will cough violently, and, sometimes vertigo and nausea will seize him"—New York Press.

Animals That Are Always Enemies.

Many animals are born with an inherent antipathy for other animals. The excessive fear shown by young rabbits which for the first time smell a ferret and of young turkeys which hear the shrill cry of a hawk they have never heard or seen before, are proved examples of the strength of these instinctive antipathies. But the case of the weasel and rat is, perhaps, more to be noticed because of the greater equality of the antagonists. The fowl is as bitter that a meeting between them almost certainly means death to one or both. Friendships are not uncommon between the cat and dog and have been known between a dog and wolf, but the mutual attitude of the weasel and rat is invariably war that is waged to the death.

The Word "Nugget."

"Nugget" was formerly used to signify a bit or lump of anything, as a "nugget of tobacco". Nowadays, however, it is used principally of gold as it comes from the mine. This use is Australian. Governor Sir William Denison of Australia wrote in 1852, "In many instances the gold is brought to market in lumps or nuggets, as they are called." In Queensland there is a peculiar use of the word unknown in the rest of Australia. There, when a man appropriates unbranded calves, he is said to be "nuggetting."

He Understood.

Paul Louis Courier, when bitterly assailed by a French professor, quietly remarked: "I fancy he must be vexed. He calls me Jacobin, rebel, plagiarist, thief, poisoner, forger, leper, madman, impostor, calumniator, libeler, a horrid, filthy, grimacing rascal. I gather what he wants to say. He means that he and I are not of the same opinion, and this is his only way of putting it."

AN EXPLANATION

[Original]

A lady sat in a train on her way home after a summer outing. Her attire was half muscled and a bit of white ruching in her bonnet marked her for a widow. A gentleman sitting near her arose and, approaching her, raised his hat and said:

"Mrs. Sands."

The lady looked up and met a kindly glance with one the reverse of kindness—was icy cold.

"You have forgotten me?" said the man.

"Not at all. I have good reason to remember Ogden Rockwell."

The man stood, evidently undecided whether to return to his seat or remain and prolong the interview. The lady removed a bag from the vacant seat beside her, though she did not ask him to be seated. He sat on the arm instead.

"A great deal has passed since we last met," he said.

"I remember the circumstance very well. It was a week before my wedding. You took it upon yourself to give me advice."

"The scene is equally vivid to me. I remember some things I said to you, but if I advised you I have forgotten it."

"At that meeting, or rather parting, you told me that if I married Laurence Sands I would regret it. I did not believe that you would aid in any regret a wife might feel in her husband's weakness."

"Nor did I dream that fate would make it my duty to expose that weakness. As I said, I was responsible for any leak in the funds of the bank."

"You could have screened him for the sake of the woman you had professed to love."

"Hanford was suspected of having taken the money. Would you have had me sacrifice him?"

To this there was no reply.

"Gratuitous," the man went on, "that there was no matter of duty or justice, would you expect me to shield a man who had taken away from all that made the world attractive to me?"

"You struck through him the woman whom you say was all that might have made the world attractive to you."

There was a brief pause at the end of which the man said:

"I asked what you would have expected."

"I would only expect a man of wonderful nobility of soul to shield a rival."

"You would put it better if you said, 'Only a cur would fail to shield a rival when the woman they both loved was to suffer.'"

She looked up at him inquiringly.

"My part in the exposure was what hurt me," he added. "That I could not help, though it wounded you."

"Why? There was the exposure necessary when there was a way out of the matter, as is evident from the fact that Laurence was not prosecuted?"

"It was known to the officers of the bank that a considerable sum of money had disappeared. As I have said, Hanford was suspected. The real culprit must at least be known."

The woman bent her head. The discussion of the matter was terribly painful, even though it had occurred five years before. She put her handkerchief to her eyes and wept. Then, drying her tears, she said:

"There is one and only one feature of the case on which I love to dwell. That is the noble act of Laurence's friend, Edward Horton, who paid the indebtedness and saved Laurence from prison."

The man dropped into the vacant seat. When he did so he was too absorbed in his thoughts to be conscious of the act. At the end of a brief silence he said:

"You were misinformed as to Horton's part in the matter. Horton was implicated in the embezzlement and threw the whole blame on your husband."

The lady turned in astonishment. "Horton implicated! Horton threw the blame on Laurence!"

"Horton, not I, was responsible for the matter coming out."

"Why, then?" she asked indignantly.

"Was I led to believe that Horton furnished the means to save Laurence? From the first I was deceived—deceived by everybody, by you, from whom I might have expected!"

"You were Laurence Sands' wife."

"Was this a reason why I should be deceived as to the person who befriended him?"

"Yes."

"Will you explain?"

"The person who furnished the means to make good the deficit did so on the condition that some one should stand in his place to you as the donor. Horton, as Laurence's friend, made an excellent substitute and, being implicated, could be compelled to accept the part."

"Why did the donor desire to hide his noble act under the cloak of a thief and a traitor to his bosom friend?"

"Because he was a man and you were a married woman."

"Well?"

"He loved you."

"She sat staring at him, her eyes seemingly growing larger and larger."

"You?"

"I."

Even the rattle of the train was not sufficient to hide the words both would have spoken. There were no words. He felt a hand on his and saw tears starting from the eyes of the woman who had so long supposed he had wronged her, while really he had saved her unutterable suffering.

AN INDIAN LEGEND.

The Grandfather of All Mosquitoes and His Giant Descendants.

There are pretty big mosquitoes in the world, but if report be true they have greatly degenerated in size and strength since the days when this legend was believed by many tribes of Indians.

The grandfather of all mosquitoes lived in the neighborhood of Onondaga, N. Y. When he grew hungry he would rally forth and eat an Indian or two and pick their teeth with their ribs. The Indians had no arms that would prevail against this monster, so they called upon the holder of heavens to come down. Finding that he had met his match in this person, the mosquito flew away. He flew around the great lake, turned eastward, sought help from the witches that inhabited the Great lake and had reached Lake Ontario when his pursuer came up and killed him.

As his blood poured forth on the sand each drop became a smaller mosquito. They gathered about the holder of the heavens and stung him so severely that he half repeated the service he had rendered to the Indians.

The Tuscaroras say that two of the mosquitoes stood on opposite sides of the Seneca river and slew all who passed. Hiawatha killed them. A reservation stone marks the place where the holder rested during his chase, and tracks were untilately seen south of Syracuse alternated with the footprints of the mosquito. These footprints were shaped like those of a bird and were twenty inches long. These marks were revered by the Indians for many years.—Brooklyn Eagle.

THE GOLD STANDARD.

England, in 1816, Was the First of the Nations to Adopt It.

The first nation to adopt the gold standard was England. She adopted the gold standard nominally in 1816, but practically not until three years later, for in 1816 England was on the paper basis. Germany, which adopted the single silver standard in 1857, took steps toward the establishment of the gold standard in 1871, but it was not until July, 1873, that she demonetized silver, undertook to melt down her silver coin, sell it for gold and establish the single gold standard. The Scandinavian nations adopted the single gold standard at the same time. In September, 1873, France restricted the free coinage of silver and three years later entirely suspended such coinage, but had never undertaken to discard the silver coin she has in use or to treat it otherwise than as on an equality with gold. The action of France in restricting and then suspending the coinage of silver on private account was followed by the other nations of the Latin union—Belgium, Switzerland, Italy and Greece—and Spain suspended the coinage of silver in 1878. Holland, which had established the single silver standard in 1847 and opened its mints to the public in 1852, followed the example of France in 1872 and opened its mints to the public in 1873.

Oscar W. Langhorst, of Wapakoneta, hand cut and bruised.

The above list of three dead and twenty-five injured represents the most despicable portion of a result of a frightful wreck which occurred on the Western Ohio Traction line in the center of the village of Cridersville, six miles south of this city last evening about 8 o'clock, when a north bound limited car left the track and swung across the main street of the village, chopped off a shade tree and a telephone pole that stood in its unusual course and then turned over on one side, leaving one dead man in its wake, another disembodied in the mass of wreckage inside the passenger compartment and with the frightened and mangled corps of an unfortunate spectator beneath its ponderous weight. The disaster was the worst that has ever occurred in the history of the road and it even eclipses the terrible Vermillion wreck which occurred on the Lake Shore electric line a few weeks ago, and to those who visited the scene of the disaster last night, it seems a miracle that more of the passengers who were tossed about in that conglomeration mass of debris were not killed or more seriously injured. There were between forty and fifty passengers on the car when the accident occurred and while some of them claimed, last night, that they were not hurt, it is doubtful if even one not out of bed this morning without feeling some effect of that terrible shaking up.

The wrecked car was No. 160, of the Toledo, Bowling Green and Toledo, over the D. & T., Western Ohio and Toledo, Bowling Green and Southern Toledo, Bowling Green and Southern poor victim's head had been torn to fragments.

Miss Rynard's Death.
The death of Miss Rynard was one of the peculiar features of the accident. Miss Rynard was not a passenger on the car. She resided with her mother and step-father in Cridersville and was employed there as a telephone operator. She was in the act of crossing the north and south street on the north side of the main street when the car left the rails and seeing the imminent danger she started to run for a place of safety but took the same course in which the dashing car was headed and in an instant was run down and crushed to death under the body of the car. When the car finally landed on its side and a search was made for the young lady, by those who had witnessed the disaster, her lifeless form was located by one bloodless hand which was found protruding from beneath the overturned body of the car. It required the combined effort of about twenty men to pry the car sufficiently high from the ground to permit the removal of her lifeless body from beneath it.

The Third Victim.

The third victim of the wreck to have his life sacrificed was Otto Koch, son of one of the members of the firm of Kolter & Koch, brewers at Wapakoneta. He had started to come to this city and was, it is believed, riding near the rear of the car when the crash occurred. His body was in line with some pieces of timber or other piece of wreckage that shot through the car when the collision with the tree and telephone pole occurred and as a result he was partly disembowelled. He was dead when taken out of the wreck.

Young Koch's remains were taken back to Wapakoneta on board the car which left here at 9:30 o'clock and the remains of the unfortunate motorman were taken home this morning. Koch was an unmarried young man while the motorman was married and leaves a wife and child at Wapakoneta. While Motorman Clapper was practically a new man on the road and had had very little experience on the limited runs, he was considered a competent man by reason of being an experienced man in operating work of steam railroading. He was formerly an engineer on the Clover Leaf railroad.

Relief from This City.

News of the disaster was soon telephoned to the offices of the Western Ohio company in this city and within a short time two cars, accompanied by some officials of the road, reporters, three physicians and some cooks were on their way to the scene of the accident.

The injured were cared for at the homes of some of the citizens of the village, including that of Mr. Ollie Rehfelder, whose house narrowly escaped being wrecked by the car. Conductor Cecil was one of the nervy of the many injured and although he was badly hurt and suffered considerable pain he insisted that all of the injured passengers be cared for before any attention was given his injuries.

Dr. Chenoweth, Dr. Vail and Dr. Parent, from this city, administered to the immediate relief of the injured and soon had one crowd of them on their way to this city. The second car followed an hour later and those who could not reach their destination at once were provided with quarters at the local hotels and were given every attention possible for their comfort.

The bodies of the dead were taken to the Shaffer undertaking establishment in Cridersville and were prepared to be taken to the homes of the surviving relatives.

OIL CAN SPOUT

Penetrated the Foot of A. Hook, Car Repairer.

A. Hook, a car repairer at the C. H. & D. shops met with a painful accident yesterday. When jumping from a car to the ground, he alighted on an oil can that was sitting on a block near the car. HIS TRUE MANHOOD

Came Forward and He Makes All Reparation In His Power.

WEDDING BELLS RING

Where the Bars of a Darkened Jail Corridor Threatened.

"Yes, sir; I wish to marry her; and make what reparation I may. And more, I love her your Honor."

So rang the true words of manhood from the lips of Floyd Davis as he faced Mayor Robb and Solicitor Eastman on a charge preferred against him by Mrs. Eva Iiams, of 121 Perry street, in protection of her 15-year-old sister, Viola Peterson.

Davis admitted his relations with Miss Peterson, and was informed that owing to the girl's age it meant a penitentiary charge against him.

"But I wish to marry her," he spoke up with sincerity shining in his eyes. With this remark the Mayor and Solicitor added congratulations, and in company with an officer the young man journeyed to the home of Mrs. Iiams, where the details of the marriage will be arranged and the ceremony performed, if the proffered guardianship of young Davis is solicited. He reiterated the statement that he wished to furnish a home, and support the girl as his own true wife, and the sooner the wedding bells could ring, that much sooner would he be the happier.

Men Past Sixty in Danger
More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate glands. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Eurnett, Rockport, Mo., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years, although I am now 91 years old." Talks on Teeth

By John E. Evans,
D. D. S.

Twentieth Century Methods.

The world is moving along.

New inventions, new discoveries, new ways of living, follow close upon one another. The pine knot and tallow candle have given way to the incandescent light. Steam, electricity, telegraph, telephone, wireless telegraphy have all come within the century. Science has added much to the sum total of knowledge along practically all lines, especially dentistry.

The greatest improvement now pertaining to dentistry is the porcelain crown and bridgework. I can make you a full upper of this beautiful white material that you can not detect from the natural teeth if there are only four teeth left in either jaw. The porcelain crown and bridgework are making more beautiful smiling faces and bringing more genuine happiness to humanity than any other dental work that has been given to the world.

Take heed! Look after your teeth in time, before it's too late. What price can be put upon beautiful set of teeth, so natural in feeling and appearance that your best friend would swear that you have never lost a tooth! You cannot measure the value of such a service aside from the health standpoint. Good teeth mean good health.

Another stride in the Twentieth century is the introduction of so-called porcelain crown and bridgework. I have administered it fully one hundred times the last year without any deleterious effects. Ask your neighbor about it. Notous oxide gas, chloride of ether, chloroform, etc., must give way to the new discovery, especially in minor surgery, such as the extraction of teeth.

I have spent eleven years since my graduation in the practice of dentistry, and am located in Opera Block Room 308-309. Am prepared to do all dental work, porcelain, gold, and silver fillings, crowns, plate work, correcting irregularities, etc. All work guaranteed. New Phone, 982 A. Office Hours: 8 to 12 a. m. and 1 to 5 p. m. Sunday by appointment. dsw.
